

On June 1, 2010, WordPress made “reblogging” available for use by those having websites built upon WordPress.com.

An explanation of what a reblog is appears in the WordPress website “We All Like to Reblog” and is also available through the reblog “We All Like to Reblog \(via Wordpress.com News\)” that appears in the menu of recent posts in the BNA Members Forum and that serves as a source for instructions for creating reblogs.

Pages, posts, and reblog posts have been sorted out in the Table of Contents of the forum.

Considerable use has been made of reblogs within the Travel (nearby) and Gardening categories.

The list of categories will not necessarily be limited to those that are now included in the forum. The list can be expanded as appropriate for classifying forum content contributed by BNA members in the coming months.

The website at <http://www.bohlsnews.org> will continue to be maintained as a source of information about the Bohls Neighborhood Association.
